Readers may notice a 'new look' to this journal as it has been word processed instead of typed. Unfortunately this is a one off as we have not suddenly splashed out on a word processor. At present I am on a computer course at school and I had to produce a word processed assignment during the Easter holidays, so I have borrowed one of the school's computers, and taken the opportunity to produce the journal at the same time. Next time though it will be back to the typewriter, unless we convince ourselves in the meantime that we need a word processor.

Recently we were contacted by Colonel Iain Swinnerton of the Guild of One Name Studies. He had produced a directory of One Name Societies and then realised that there were some (like us) who although affiliated to the Federation of Family History Societies are not members of the Guild. So we have now been included in the directory, but more important, a meeting of 18 One Name Societies has been arranged for next month. It will be an informal meeting to exchange ideas and experiences and I shall be attending together with Elaine Hill and Ruth Powell. A report next time.

Speakers have now been finalised for our Gathering next year and our President, the Earl of Shrewsbury hopes to join us. I know it is still a year ahead, but please make a commitment to attend. It will only be successful if we have a good attendance.

We are always grateful to receive articles for publishing in the journal. For one thing it means I don't have to work so hard. So if you feel inclined to put pen to paper, please let us have the results.

Finally, make a note in your diary of our walkabout for this year. It will take place on Sunday September 5th, 1993 at Lacock village, Wiltshire. We will meet outside the Fox Talbot Museum at 11.30am. Please bring a packed lunch or make your own lunch arrangements. Hope to see you there.

THE TALBOTS OF MARGAM AND PENRICE

This article was first published in Talbotania Volume 2 Number 3. The article is based solely on the material either written by, or donated by one of our members John Vivian Hughes.

Until the dissolution of the monasteries by HENRY VIII in 1537, there had been an Abbey built by the Cistercian monks at Margam since 1147. However after the dissolution, SIR RICE MANSEL purchased the Abbey's lands and property and built a mansion near the abbey ruins. The MANSEL family became a noted one in Glamorganshire and in 1611 THOMAS MANSEL was created a baronet. His daughter MARY married JOHN IVORY TALBOT of Lacock, a descendant of the Earls of Shrewsbury and the Talbots of Salwarp and Lacock. When the Mansel line died out with the 4th LORD MANSEL, the estates of Margam and Penrice were inherited by the REVEREND THOMAS TALBOT, son of JOHN IVORY & MARY TALBOT. He was a clergyman in Colingbourne Ducis, Wiltshire, with little interest in his Welsh estates. His wife JANE BEACH was a member of another old Wiltshire family. On the death of the REVEREND THOMAS in 1758, the estates were held in trust for his son THOMAS MANSEL TALBOT, born in 1747. During THOMAS' minority, the estates were somewhat neglected until a capable agent, HOPKIN LLEWELLYN was employed in 1765. Even when he attained his majority, THOMAS showed scant interest in his estates, for he immediately embarked on his "Grand Tour".

The result of his extensive travels in Europe was an awakening interest in architecture and works of art. On his return he had a villa built in the classical style at Penrice, and then set about landscaping the parkland around the house, and having an artificial lake created to provide a suitable focal point. Whilst all this work was going on at Penrice, Margam was gradually falling into disrepair, and between the years 1787 & 1797 the house was demolished leaving only parts of the old Abbey.

However in 1787 THOMAS began to build an orangery at Margam to house the numerous orange, lemon and citrus trees which he had inherited from his MANSEL ancestors. During a British winter orange trees need protection, so THOMAS built the Orangery 327 feet long with a back wall containing fireplaces to heat air which passed through flues in winter, and a high door in its centre so that the trees could be wheeled into the garden in summer. The Orangery was also used to house some of the antiques purchased by THOMAS during his Grand Tour.

THOMAS was also persuaded to pay for the restoration of Margam Abbey Church. The stone came from his own quarries at Pyle, and once again his travels abroad inspired the design. Nor was Penrice Church forgotten, for restoration was undertaken here too. In 1772 THOMAS became a founder member of the Glamorgan Agricultural Society, and he won two awards granted by the Society for introducing English pheasant at Margam, and for a reclamation scheme on a large area of marsh. He was a keen sportsman and owned some fine horses and hounds. In 1782 he was appointed High Sheriff of Glamorgan. and in 1794, at the comparatively late age of 47, he married LADY MARY LUCY FOX-STRANGWAYS, 2nd daughter of the 2nd EARL

OF ILCHESTER. MARY's eldest sister ELIZABETH married THOMAS' cousin WILLIAM DAVENPORT TALBOT and was the mother of WILLIAM HENRY FOX TALBOT the pioneer photographer.

THOMAS & LADY MARY had 7 daughters:-

- 1) MARY THERESA 1795 - 1861
- 2) JANE HARRIET 1796 - 1874 m. JOHN NICHOLL
- 3) CHRISTIANA BARBARA 1798 - 1808
- 4) CHARLOTTE LOUISA 1800 - 1880 m. THE REV. JOHN MONTGOMERY TRAHERNE
- 5) ELEANOR SYBILLA 1801 - 1810
- 6) ISABELLA CATHERINE 1804 - 1874 m. RICHARD FRANKLIN
- 7) EMMA THOMASINA 1806 - 1881 m JOHN DILLEYN LLEWELYN

Their only son CHRISTOPHER RICE MANSEL TALBOT b. 1803, was to become an even more noted figure than his father. THOMAS died in 1813 leaving his estates in trust for his son CHRISTOPHER.

About a year after his father's death CHRISTOPHER was sent to Harrow school where his cousin WILLIAM HENRY FOX TALBOT took him under his wing. After three years at Harrow, his mother, (who had remarried CAPTAIN SIR CHRISTOPHER COLE R.N. in 1815) removed him and sent him to a private tutor to prepare him for a university scholarship. Holidays were spent either at Margam or Penrice, although the accomodation at the former was a modest house later known as Margam Cottage. In 1820 CHRISTOPHER went to Oriel College, Oxford to study mathematics, and it was during this time that his interest in scientific matters developed. Soon after attaining his majority in 1824, he embarked on an extended tour of Europe like his father before him, and on returning to England, he turned his attention to Margam where he resolved to build a suitable mansion. The design was influenced by other Talbot homes at Lacock Abbey in Wiltshire and Melbury House in Dorset, and was reputed to have cost over £50,000.

CHRISTOPHER made it his main residence.

Whilst building was going on, CHRISTOPHER turned his attention to politics, and took over his Step-father's seat as County Member of Parliament, a seat which he was destined to hold for 59 years. He also had a passion for yachts and invariably spent the season at Cowes, Isle of Wight.

In 1835 he married LADY CHARLOTTE BUTLER daughter of RICHARD, VISCOUNT CAHIR & 1st EARL OF GLENGALL. They had 4 children:-

- 1) THEODORE MANSEL 1839 - 1876
- 2) EMILY CHARLOTTE 1840 - 1918
- 3) BERTHA ISABELLA 1841 - 1911 m. JOHN FLETCHER
- 4) OLIVIA 1842 - 1894

CHARLOTTE died in 1846.

CHRISTOPHER RICE MANSEL TALBOT was a great connoisseur of art and antiques, building up the Talbot collection which his father had started. He was also a lover of music, a keen chess player and very interested in his cousin's photographic experiments. In 1848 when he was appointed Lord Lieutenant of Glamorgan, CHRISTOPHER was the largest landowner and tithe payer in the county, and already a millionaire.

This was the time of the industrial revolution and CHRISTOPHER had the foresight to envisage how industrial growth would benefit the area as a whole, but recognised the need for the development and improvement of local docks and transportation. The old harbour at Aberavon was improved and re-named Port Talbot, and when the South Wales railway was formed, he became its chairman and major share holder. By 1890, it was estimated that his railway investments were worth £3,000,000. He was the director of the Great Western Railway Company in 1863, the sole owner of the Chester & Birkenhead line and the principal proprietor of the Great Western Hotel at Paddington. During these years many alterations and improvements were made at Margam and Penrice, including a formal terrace to the Orangery and an octagonal Beulah Methodist Chapel.

In 1869, CHRISTOPHER RICE MANSEL TALBOT was offered a peerage by the then Prime Minister W.E. GLADSTONE, but he replied that he was "unable to accept" because he was concerned for the safety of his seat for the Liberal Party. He later reconsidered his decision and tried to persuade his son THEODORE to stand for parliament in his place, but THEODORE refused to abandon hunting for politics. In fact he had a passion for riding and hunting and in 1875 he sustained serious injuries after falling from his horse. In spite of several months of treatment, he died in June 1876. His father was heartbroken, but continued with his sporting interests of yachting, riding and shooting, although in later years riding and shooting became a problem. His shooting ability declined in his old age and the loss of use of his legs meant that he had to have a specially designed saddle to prevent him falling off his horse.

In the latter years of his life CHRISTOPHER lived permanently at Margam, dying there in January 1890. His daughter EMILY CHARLOTTE inherited an estimated fortune of £6,000,000. MISS TALBOT shared her father's interest in Port Talbot, and during her lifetime she saw it develop from a small village to a busy town with docks, steel works and railway junctions. She was also concerned for the welfare of her farmers and tenants, spending a great deal of money on repairs and new buildings.

MISS TALBOT spent some time each year at Cannes on the French Riviera and divided the rest of her time between Margam, Penrice and London. At Margam and Penrice she entertained on a lavish scale, not only members of her own family, but also royalty including KING EDWARD VII and PRINCE ARTHUR OF CONNAUGHT. Like her father, MISS TALBOT was a patron of the arts, she also gave to charities and built many churches in Glamorgan as well as making improvements to the gardens at Margam. When EMILY CHARLOTTE died in 1918, Margam was bequeathed to her nephew CAPTAIN ANDRE MANSEL TALBOT FLETCHER, and Penrice to his sister LADY BLYTHSWOOD. During the Second World War, the Orangery and part of the castle were requisitioned by the Government and the contents of the mansion were auctioned in 1941. In 1942 the estate was sold to SIR DAVID EVANS-BEVAN. During the war years the mansion and orangery housed British and American troops, but the mansion is now a derelict and empty shell. In 1973 Glamorgan County Council acquired Margam Park and together with Afan Borough Council are developing it as a country park. The Orangery has been restored and will be used as a function room. Other features include 3 lakes, 110 acres of woodland, monastic ruins, Iron age hill fort, awalled garden and a herd of fallow deer. The park is open daily in the summer and at weekends in the winter.

N.B. Since this article was written in 1981 much has been done to renovate the Castle and upgrade the Park. Those attending the 3rd T.I.G. next year will be able to see for themselves.

EDITOR

We are very grateful to Mr Johnstone for this information which has been added to our records.

From Tom Talbot, Valentine, Australia

As you probably know we have a growing movement of people who wish us to break our ties with the U.K. and become a republic. This is led by our Prime Minister and other prominent politicians who have ideas of becoming the first president. I shudder at the thought of a presidential election such as we have just seen in U.S.A. The same people want to change our flag.
They do not like the Union Jack in the corner. My estimate is that ten years after we become a republic we shall be taken over by an asiatic power against whom we shall have no answer. Our media generally supports the republican idea and last Anzac day
I was snubbed by a media photographer because I was wearing my MBE medal. She didn't want people wearing Imperial Honours

I am an Anglophile and enjoy watching English films with glimpses of English country scenes, also English comedies and good English speaking voices.

.....I was very interested in Mike's family history in the last Talbotania, as well as all the other items.

EDITOR

Since Tom wrote that letter at Christmas, the Prime Minister has been elected for another term, so he will have plenty of time to put his plans into action. However, the number of letters we receive from Australia asking for help with their ancestor hunting is increasing, so I'm sure there must be many people who feel as Tom does.

From Iretta Talbot, Tulsa, Oklahoma

On hearing and seeing on TV the fire in Windsor Castle today, and also they mentioned the Castle was built in William the Conqueror's time and/or by him I thought I had to write to you. I have heard or read that William the Conqueror's mother was a Talbot. Was this true? I know you would know if anyone should. What was her first name and who were her parents. Also was ANN BOLEYN's mother a Talbot/

Editor

We were able to assure Mrs Talbot that neither William the Conqueror nor Ann Boleyn's mothers were Talbots.

From JOHN TALBOT, Winchester, Hants.

My wife and I recently had the pleasure of meeting HUGH TALBOT and his wife. In the course of a long discussion with him I remarked that I had been sorry to learn from our local booksellers that his book was now out of print. As my own copy goes back a full 11 years, perhaps this is not altogether surprising.

However, Hugh said that he was very willing to face the labour of a reprint but that it was difficult to interest publishers unless there was clear evidence of demand. I thought I would mention this in writing to you in case there is anything the TRO can do to interest those of their members who do not already possess a copy.

Editor

For newer members, the book referred to is "The English Achilles" and is the story of JOHN TALBOT, 1st EARL OF SHREWSBURY.

If you are interested in obtaining a copy if it is reprinted, please let me know. I'm not sure how many firm orders the publishers would require before they consider reprinting.

From John Dallison, Derby

By chance I came across snippets of information concerning a REVEREND REGINALD TALBOT who was at St Werburgh's Church, Derby in the 1890s. This is of interest to me since my grandparents were married there in the early 1870s, and since the Bodens of The Friary, Derby had considerable influence at the church, (Boden's Pleasance - a small pleasure ground for Derbeans - adjoined the churchyard). It seems that REGINALD TALBOT later went to Rochester, Kent. Also Mr Boden's brother Canon Charles Boden, had been curate at Ingestre church in the late 1870s. I'd appreciate any genealogical or biographical information concerning REVEREND TALBOT.

Editor

We were able to tell John that the REVEREND REGINALD THOMAS TALBOT was the third son of JOHN THOMAS TALBOT of Leamington, Warwicks. He was educated at Exeter College, Oxford and obtained his B.A. in 1885 and his M.A. in 1888

From Leslie E. Talbot, Newark, Notts

Enclosed are the entries for TALBOT in the 1891 Census located in the Newark Library. You will note some of the entries are for parishes in Lincolnshire that comes under the Newark area. One of note is Fulbeck where the name is spelt with a TT.

I have looked up REUBEN TALBOTT in the Barnby in the Willows parish records and have found the following entry:-January 14th 1816 Reuben Talbot base born son of MARTHA TALBOT abode, Barnby, Servant.

This is shown as a single T ending.

In the same register there is an entry for the marriage of THOMAS BILTON of Dry Doddington, Lincs to SARAH TALBOT of Barnby on August 16th, 1813.

The Notts Marriage Index up to 1699 has been completed for A - K for males with a female cross reference list, there are two entries as follows:-

JOSHUA EGLAY married ELIZABETH TAULBUT at Sturton on May 12th, 1668.

RICHARD BOWMAR married ELIZABETH TALBOT at Ordsall on April 17th, 1699.

Editor

Our thanks to Leslie for all this information. The Census records he mentions can be found elsewhere in this journal.

From Frank Talbot, Bridgend, Mid Glamorgan.

Muriel is still very active, researching who may possibly be Walter of Wantage's father - trouble is the search could start all over again when he is found, if his father is not of the famous clan. Personally I have come to consider that Walter is a small fish in a big pond.

We have been having a closer look at the SIR CHRISTOPHER, brother of SIR JOHN (2nd Earl) who died at the Battle of Northampton in 1460. Did you know he was a famous jousting champion of his time? He and one other knight were supposed to be the only challengers when the champion of Spain visited England. But surprise, surprise while we are looking at him - up pops another SIR CHRISTOPHER TALBOT.

I know Mary hails from near to Nottingham so what about this?
Letters Patent of General Pardon 1446

"Pardon to THOMAS SMYTH of Braunston (Notts), Husbandman, provided the pardon does not extend to ELEANOR, daughter of REGINALD COBHAM (Kt), JOHN BOLTON of Bolton, Lancs, Bladesmith, WILLIAM WYGHELE late keeper of the gaol at Nottingham, nor to the murderers of CHRISTOPHER TALBOT (Kt)"

Have you any idea who this Christopher is? Clearly there were 2 Sir Christophers alive at that time. The more we discover the more confusing it gets as it seems that there were many Sirs among the Talbot fraternity at that time. It seems there were many branches of the family running parallel at that time which we may never unravel. Do you know if any books/literature are available to help in this respect?

We are also very interested in GEORGE, brother of GILBERT OF GRAFTON. He was also known as HUMPHREY - very confusing again as there were several Humphreys around at that time and we have yet to sort out which one was granted Kingston Lisle in 1475.

Perhaps you would be kind enough to ask about the murdered SIR CHRISTOPHER and GEORGE in the next edition of the journal, or am I the only one to be looking that far back?

Editor

I'm afraid Frank, the answer is YES you are probably among a very small minority who are researching that far back, but I have duly published your letter in the hope that someone may help you.

From Mrs Kerry Johnston, Elphinstone, Aust.

My father was CHARLES JULIAN EDWARD VICTOR TALBOT, born in Bristol in 1889. On my father's birth certificate it states his father was a WILLIAM EDWARD TALBOT (Solicitor) and mother MAUDE MARY TALBOT (formerly HILL) Home duties.

My grandparents travelled extensively and eventually, I was told, they settled in New York. My father also talked about relatives in France, their name being GARLICK. We have a photo taken in January 1912 of a J.G. GARLICK, PHILIP M.

OBITUARY

Dear Mike & Mary,

I have sad news.

Tal died on Jan 23. He'd had two heart attacks on the 7th and never really recovered. I was with him to the end which was peaceful and painless, thank God.

I'm sure you will remember him in your own special way. He was a very special person, and very precious to me. I shall miss him dreadfully.

Yours

Dot.

This letter landed on our mat early in the new year announcing the death of Dr Talbot Hood who had been a member of the Organisation since 1982. His ancestor was the elusive MATTHEW TALBOT born somewhere in England on September 26th, 1699, who went to Maryland about 1720, and made his mark on American history.

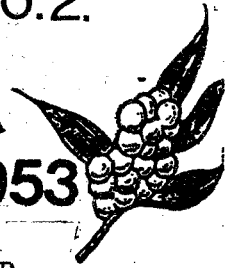

Dr Hood's descent was through JAMES SMITH TALBOT, JAMES WASHINGTON TALBOT, DR ISHAM STROTHIER TALBOT, whose daughter VIRGINIA LEE TALBOT was DR HOOD's mother.

TALBOT had led a very full life. Born in Illinois he was educated at the University of Illinois and received his Master's Degree in 1928, when he began work as a journalist.

He was James' father. James wonders if any other readers connect to his earliest ancestor JAMES (above) who spent most of his life around Hocking County, Ohio.

MRS M. JONES, Llainwen, Llanfair yn Neuwl, Caergeihog, Holyhead, Anglesey, Gwynedd LL65 3HL.

Mrs Jones' ancestor is DAVID TALBOT who according to the 1891 census lived at 28, Chapel Street, Byker, Newcastle. He was aged 74 years, born in Scotland and a retired Bottlemaker. His wife was ANN THOMSON b. 1818 at Gateshead. Also living with them was their granddaughter EMILY aged 18. She was a shop girl born in Sunderland.

DAVID & ANN's son DAVID Jnr. was born on July 14th, 1843. He married ANN HOBSON on May 15th, 1864 and died on February 27th, 1919.

Their son was GEORGE born May 4th, 1877, married EDITH SHAW August 19th, 1907. Died March 29th, 1918.

MRS GLENYS SHAW, 168, Bardon Road, Coalville, Leicester, LE67 4BJ.

Mrs Shaw's great grandparents, PAUL STEDS & HANNAH TALBOT were married at The Wesleyan Methodist Chapel, Ashby de la Zouch, Leics., on December 25th 1885. HANNAH's father was HENRY TALBOT, a clay miner aged 54 according to the 1891 census and born at Swadlincote, Derbys. His wife SARAH was aged 57 on the 1891 census. Mrs Shaw believes that HENRY's parents were HENRY TALBOT & MARY ANN WOOTTON who were married on December 9th, 1829 at Church Greasley, Derbys. but she has not yet proved this.

JOHN TALBOT, 9, Castel Close, Seabridge Newcastle, Staffs. ST5 3EG.

JOHN's brothers FRANK of Bridgend and RICHARD of Stoke on Trent are already members of the Organisation and busy trying to find the ancestry of WALTER TALBOT who was Governor of Wantage.

TIM COCKERILL, Old Mill house, Weston Colville, Cambridge.

Mr Cockerill believes that his great great grandfather JOHN COCKERILL of Wolverhampton (1789 - 1880) may have been the illegitimate child of a Talbot/Shrewsbury. Mr Cockerill thinks this claim is highly suspect and thinks perhaps it was his mother MARTHA TALBOT of Brewood, Staffs who was a distant connection of the noble family.

Mr Cockerill enclosed a letter concerning WILLIAM PARKE a contemporary of his ancestor. The letter asserts that WILLIAM PARKE was the child of a man named TALBOT & a woman named Parke born in Brewood about 1790. When his mother died WILLIAM was brought up by his maternal grandparents in their name. The widower TALBOT remarried and became the father of the Talbot who claimed the Earldom of Shrewsbury. Mr Cockerill, would appreciate any comments on this claim.

Mr Talbott has joined the Organisation in the hope that he can make contact with other members who descend from MATTHEW TALBOT born in England in 1699 who went to America in 1720. He would like to have some information about MATTHEW's relatives in England or Ireland.

TALBOT OF CASTLE TALBOT CO. WEXFORD
by Mary Stratton - Ryan.

This booklet has been privately produced by the author and we have no information on costs or how to obtain it.

Mary Ryan has a dual connection to the Talbot family. Her husband is the great great grandson of JOHN H.

TALBOT of Castle Talbot and her own family link in through two marriages with the Dorset and Wiltshire Talbots. She has chosen to detail the main Irish line from its roots in Normandy through Shrewsbury and Malahide to Wexford.

The book is well researched, interesting to read and gives a much needed account of the complicated tree of the Irish Talbots. M.T.

THE TALBOTS & MALAHIDE CASTLE by Tom O'Shea,

by FRANK TALBOT

In this article Frank describes a subsequent visit to France which took place shortly after Christmas.

DAY 1

Travel to Caen. Late in the day visit Falaise, WILLIAM THE CONQUEROR's castle closed for restoration works to the dungeons and Talbot Tower. I stood under the gateway arch and marvelled at the thought of WILLIAM coming and going through the same place. The light was fading when we were taking photos of the statue of William and the Six Dukes of Normandy. Decided to return later in the week to take better photos.

DAY 2

We travelled to Rouen Cathedral. On entering the first tomb we encountered was that of WILLIAM, 2nd Duke of Normandy - son of ROLLO. He (William) was of course the father of RICHARD THE FEARLESS (3rd Duke) and grandfather of HUGH TALEBOTH - Bishop of Lisieux. We also saw the tombs of a RICHARD & HENRY but we have yet to translate the Latin inscription to find out who they were. All the tombs had imposing marble effigies lying on them.

After visiting Rouen we travelled to Cleuville in Caux, reputedly the home of the BARONS TALBOT.

Cleuville is a small scattered village approximately 30 miles north west of Rouen. Of course after 1,000 years we expected to find nothing relating to Talbots so we were not disappointed. Cleuville is a very sleepy place (we only saw one person) set in rolling agricultural land. The surrounding area is uninteresting as no hedges exist, so only vast acres of land are visible with occasional clumps of trees. The only slight association to Talbots we found was a tombstone in the graveyard to the church bearing the name BASSETT with whom Talbots have had some association over the years.

DAY 3

We travelled to Lisieux a town better known for its Basilica and the pilgrims thereto rather than the Cathedral in the town centre. Like most French Cathedrals it was almost devoid of links with the past except the building itself. We were looking for some evidence of the existence of HUGH TALBOT a one time Bishop. We had almost given up looking when we noticed the stained glass windows on the left side of the cathedral had names set in them. The earliest names of past bishops started on the window nearest the rear of the church and proceeded in date order on successive windows towards the altar. On the first window it showed the first Bishop as being HERBERT but the second one was HUGH and dated 1050 - 1070. As there was no other Hugh we could only assume this to be a reference to HUGH TALEBOTH. From the dates given it is apparent that he was Bishop at the time when RICHARD & GEOFFREY TALBOT came to England with the Conqueror. Although photographs were taken of the windows, they were so high and with the light outside, that his name or the date cannot be observed.

DAY 4

We travelled to Caen to visit the Abbey Aux Hommes next to the Hotel de Ville. A beautiful building which was warm air centrally heated and the organist in full flow. Here lies the body of WILLIAM THE CONQUEROR immediately in front of the altar. This area of the Abbey adjacent to the tomb and altar is surrounded with high railings bearing the coats of arms of many famous Norman names. On the right hand side is a memorial erected in 1927 commemorating the 900th birthday of WILLIAM presented by the City of Hastings who also presented a section of the railings to the Abbey. Among the names of the dignitaries present are the Earl of Shrewsbury and Talbot, WILLIAM CHETWYND TALBOT & EDITH MARION TALBOT.

DAY 5

We revisited Falaise on a foggy morning to take a final view of the Chateau. I walled down the side which dips steeply to see the full extent of the castle on the hill. The top of the Talbot Tower was observable together with the extensive ramparts. Due to its location it would have been a hard nut to crack and a very formidable obstacle to anyone wishing to take over the "Heart of Normandy". We managed to take better photos of WILLIAM & the Dukes statue and departed for Caen. As we had a little time to spare before going to the Ferry Port we decided to visit the Abbey Aux Dammes in Caen. Another beautifully centrally heated abbey which had just been stone cleaned inside to highlight the magnificent architecture. Here lies MAUD or MATILDE the wife of WILLIAM THE CONQUEROR and a marble slab covers her remains in the transept of the church.

Afterwards we departed via the Normandie Ferry full of memories of 1,000 years ago.

A CALL FOR HELP

E. METCALFE, 18, Larch Rise, Barrow in Furness, Cumbria, LA13 0JZ

My interest in the Talbot name is very tenuous. A sister of my great grandmother married a Talbot.

Details:- December 21st, 1868 at Dudley, St Edmunds, Worcs.

BENJMIN TALBOT m. EMILY PERRY (aged 21 years).

No age is given for Benjamin but his occupation was chainmaker, address Dudley, father Shadrach Talbot, grocer. Witnesses William Lewis and Sarah Dudley, the latter being a witness to many marriages.

MICHAEL HAXELL, 11, Ryeland Avenue, Bridlington, YO16 5UN

My great grandmother JANE TALBOT has given rise to my interest though I have had little success in tracing her ancestry. If any of your documentations or contacts could help me, I should be grateful.

I have a record of her baptism in 1830 in Virley, Essex, the daughter of Joseph (farm labourer) and Susan Clark, a widow who married in 1820. Other members of the family were baptised between 1821 and 1835 at Great Wigborough, Essex. I have checked Essex registers 1780 - 1804 for the parishes of the Wigboroughs, Virley, Salcot, Peldon, West Mersea, East Donyland, Berechurch, Abberton, Laver Morney and Laver de la Haye without discovering the baptism of Joseph. According to the I.G.I. a Joseph and Elizabeth had children baptised in Colchester in the early 19th century, but no Joseph is given.

RICHARD PERKINS, 45, St Mary's Street, Farcet, Peterborough, PE7 3AR.

Talbot is only part of my family history research. It exists on the maternal side of my family and all its members come from Batley in West Yorkshire.

MARY TALBOT (1829 -1861) was my great great grandmother and I have three generations back to John Talbot (c.1707 - 1780).

I am anxious to discover evidence of the birth or baptism of John Talbot from Bately, W. YorkshiRe. He was born around 1707 and died in 1780. He married a Hannah Mowbray in 1746.

HAROLD C. GREENWOOD, 108, The Ridgeway, Marshalswick, St Albans, Herts AL4 9PR

My interest in the Talbot name is fairly peripheral to my own family line in that it was one of my 3x great-grandfather's younger brothers who married into the Talbot family. however, I have only minimal information on the Talbot connection, and would be interested to discover more.

HANNAH TALBOT, born c. 1775 daughter of THOMAS & SARAH TALBOT of Kendal, Westmoreland who both died pre 1804. Hannah married ALEXANDER BROCKWAY GREENWOOD on March 8th, 1804 at Westminster.

The marriage of Alexander and Hannah, together with the birth of their children and grandchildren, and their own deaths, are in the records of the Society of Friends (Quakers), as were such details for many of my Greenwood family. However, I have so far found no entries, in Quaker or other records, for any Talbot family in Westmoreland in the late 1700s.

W. MURRAY MILES, 55, Church Street East, St. Clements,
Ontario, Canada N0B 2M0

What I do know:-

My great great grandfather's name was Dennis Talbot and he was born in England in approximately 1818.

He married an Elizabeth Cartlidgewho was also born in England at about the same time.

Their first child, John Talbot, was born in 1841 in Quebec, and they subsequently had 6 more children, all born in Canada.

After being in Quebec for 7-8 years they eventually settled in London, Ontario where there were other Talbots who had emigrated from England and Ireland.

He was a shoemaker by trade and eventually turned to farming in Ontario until his death in 1882 with Elizabeth passing away in 1903.

I continue to research the Talbot tree here in Canada and I am gradually filling in the missing pieces.

What I would like to know:-

Where in England Dennis and Elizabeth would have imigrated from.

Any suggestions\advice you may have.

EDITOR

With the help of Stuart Ransom, we were able to tell Mr Miles that Dennis Talbert and Elizabeth Cartlidge were married in Lincoln in the 4th quarter of 1838.

DEREK WILLIAMS, 32, Harrington Drive, Cheltenham,
Gloucs. GL51 6ER

According to the Greene family pedigree, Sir Thomas Greene (1369 - 1417) of Greens Norton, Northants, married MARY TALBOT (died 1433), the daughter of Richard, Lord Talbot (C1361 - 1396) of Goodriche Castle, Herefordshire. She was therefore the sister of the first Earl Of Shrewsbury.

According to old Welsh pedigrees, they had a daughter Margaret who married Sir John Scourfield, of Kendal, Westmoreland, and their descendant John Scourfield moved to New Moat, Pembrokeshire, in the 15th century. He was an ancestor of mine. The marriage is listed in what is believed to be the most reliable of the Scourfield pedigrees.

One problem is that Mary's parents married about 1381 whereas a best estimate of the date of birth of Sir John and Margaret's son William Scourfield is 1390 - 1400.

Have you any evidence pointing to a relationship with the Scourfields. Clearly it would be of great interest to me to find that I am descended from the Talbots.

A. MORETTI, 49, Brook Street, Wymeswold, Loughborough, Leics. LE12 6TT

I am searching for more information about SELENA TALBOT who married JOSEPH DANKS in Dudley on December 25th, 1840. That is all I have on her except that I have a clock that might have come from the family. In another branch of the family the name occurs in the Breaston area of Nottinghamshire Francis Talbot Jerram born May 31st, 1835 son of Oldershaw Jerram and Susan Shelton. Again I have no more details.

THEA MARIE SANKIEWICZ, 5365 Bitterwood Lane, Las Vegas, Nevada 89118, U.S.A.

I am researching a Talbot family line that came from England to America sometime in the 1600 or 1700s. I have traced this line to a Basil Talbot who lived in Washington County, Virginia in the late 1700s. I suspect, although I have not been able to confirm, that Basil is the son of Thomas Talbot of Virginia or Maryland.

John Talbot ≈ d. 1453

For several years now, Mike has harboured a wish to commemorate JOHN TALBOT, 1st Earl of Shrewsbury in some way. He has a monument to him in France, but he is little known in England.

Living, as we do, in the area where he stood on English soil for the last time, we thought it appropriate that some form of memorial plaque should be placed at Portchester Castle, Hampshire, where he resided as he fulfilled his dual post of Governor of Portsmouth and of the Fleet, as well as being custodian of the castle.

Some years ago, we approached English Heritage who now administer and maintain the castle, but we were told that it is not their policy to place plaques on their ancient monuments.

On Easter Saturday, April 10th, 1993, an article about John Talbot, 1st Earl of Shrewsbury appeared in our local paper 'The News'. It was an article prepared by Mike and I and Mike was also pictured at Portchester Castle carrying a copy of John Talbot's shield. On the strength of the article we wrote to Fareham Borough Council who administer much of the land surrounding the castle, to ask if we could place the plaque on THEIR land.

Their reply was much more favourable and they need details on the style of the plaque, size and wording.

We would very much appreciate any thoughts YOU may have plus any donations towards the cost of the plaque.

Finally we had a variety of responses to the newspaper article, from The Vicar of Catherington, Hants. who wrote as a professional Herald Printer who has painted the Talbot Arms many times to say that we had too many engrailings on the shield; to the lady who phoned to ask if we knew that John Talbot was buried at Whitchurch, Salop; and finally the man who wrote to the paper about the superior quality of Chateau Talbot.

However the most exciting response was from B.B.C. Radio Solent, our local radio station who did a 3 minute broadcast on Thursday May 13th, about John Talbot and his connection with Portchester Castle, including an interview with Mike.

PLEASE DO LET US HAVE YOUR THOUGHTS ON THE STYLE AND WORDING FOR THE PLAQUE.
